

would arrange for some specially interesting music during the evening.
It was decided that the matter should stand over for further information, and the decision was left in the hands of the Master and Wardens.

The following letter to the Master from the Clerk was read:—

The Worshipful Company of Musicians
Clerks Office

Hedert Sullivan Esq

London. W.1

9 July 1924

My dear Master—

I am getting old, and, as you know, I am not in very good health, which necessitates the strictest dieting, and I have felt that the hot room at our Court & other Dinners & the continued strain after a Court meeting, is too much for me.

I never dine out now more than I can possibly help, and I feel that the very careful arrangements which our functions, especially the big dinners, entail, are more than I ought to undertake.

I have therefore come to the conclusion, with the greatest regret, that I must resign my position as Clerk to the Company, (in which I shall complete my 25 years of service in October next) and make room for a younger man.

A convenient date for my resignation to take effect would seem to be on the 11th October, when, in the ordinary course my name would again come up for re-election and my successor could then take over the duties & make the necessary final arrangements for the Liberty Dinner on the 25th October when the new Master & Wardens would be admitted into office.

I need not say that I shall be only too pleased to give my successor
