Sivery

The Clerk reported that the nominations from the Royal College of Music had not been received, when Sir Hugh Allen explained that he had refrained from nominating for a special purpose. He pointed out that at the Sivery Dinner when the Medal would normally be presented the Master Elect who was Treasurer of The Royal Academy of Music would be in the Chair and Dr. Stanley Marchant would be present for the first time in his capacity as Principal of The Royal Academy of Music. He was anxious therefore that the evening should be "an Academy Evening" and that the College should not in any way intrude. He therefore asked the Court to sanction the postponement of the presentation of the Silver Medal to the January Court Dinner. He would have liked to have suggested also that the Medal be presented this year at the Royal Academy of Music and that the College should stand down altogether for the current year. He was
