

At a Committee of the worshipful Company of Musicians held at the London Tavern Bishopsgate Street on Tuesday the 23<sup>d</sup> day of June 1795.

Present

Mr. Hardy Treasurer

Mr. Aiz

Mr. Humphreys

Mr. Wadd.

The annual Steward's feast was ordered for 120, at the usual price of 5<sup>s</sup> per head, but one of the Partners of the house, stating that on account of the increased price of every article of provision, he should be obliged in order to do justice to his guests, to make an advance of 1<sup>s</sup> per head, the Committee, thinking the same reasonable, assented thereto.

Ordered

200 Tickets, red, to be printed.

200 Sheet Lists

The clerk to apply to Mr. Freeman, Guildhall, to superintend the wine, deliver Tickets &c. as done by him last year.

Ordered that the same rules as to the admission of guests be observed as at the last Annual Dinner.
